Weekly Summary

With no prior market to compare to from last week's weather-related closings, today's ending figures compared to 2 weeks ago showed all weight class averages ended from $8 to $15 cwt higher and certain class instances up to $20 cwt higher. Demand for slaughter cows and bulls also picked up to refill the pipeline from last week's lack of available cattle.

Today's market figures showed the market bulls have taken over and optimism again dominates the industry's mood. Buyer interest and aggression was extremely strong here today as 23 feeder calf buyers battled for inventory

COMMENTS

Today is the day we should all line up to say thank you to our local cattle buyers! Through the rain, mud, and ice the crew showed up and showed out today! Huge gains on all classes of cattle, seeing prices we haven't seen in years. Tight 5wt steers would be the star of the show, 4wt steers would be the runner up. Packer cows would be 5 dollars higher and packer bulls 10 dollars higher. We appreciate the crew, buyers, and sellers for helping us get through a great sale in not-so-great weather. see everyone next week!
