Weekly Summary

With no market comparison due to last week's holiday closing, the different market class figures compared to the pre-holiday closing showed that all classes of both feeder steers and heifers to be firm. Slaughter cows and bulls however ended $2 to $4 higher.

It appears the feeder demand and market continue to be on solid ground as the market fundamentals remain extremely strong entering the 2nd half of the year. Demand along with lower inventory continue to overshadow any negatives to the markets.

COMMENTS

Like a firecracker on July 5th, this market has finally popped. The last several weeks we have seen consecutive market gains but after 3 days of CME futures down hard, all good things have come to an end. Overall market health would still be pretty lucrative, just cheaper on all classes. Packer bulls would take the cake today with one bull bumping $4000! Watch for an update on a really nice set of crossbred cows next week! We appreciate each and every one that worked through these large receipts as we return to the big show after July 4th.
