Weekly Summary

Compared to last week's market, the price averages on feeder steers and heifers ended fully $7 to $12 higher. Slaughter cows showed firm to $2 lower depending on the yield grade while the slaughter bulls finished $10 higher.

After last week's financial meltdown, it appears the feeders realized the livestock fundamentals weren't directly exposed to the stock market's blood letting and once again set on its optimistic and bullish trend.

COMMENTS

Market took a back seat to the heat today as the temperature were a little hotter than the demand for a calf. Overall still seeing good receipts and cattle dollaring out very well. Heifers closing a little more gap on steers than we have seen in the prior months. An average reduction of 8 dollars per hundred covers most cattle classes. Steady to a few dollars cheaper on packer cows and bulls. Quality bred cows in very high demand, if you have stock cows to market don't hesitate to give us a call. Pair cattle not quite as strong as a 4-6 month bred cows. We appreciate our crew inside and out battling the heat. See y'all next Wednesday!
