Weekly Summary

Compared to last week's market, the price averages on feeder steers and heifers weighing 400 lbs and down on the front-end classes ended mostly firm while the lower grade feeders ended fully $10 lower. Feeder steers and heifers over 400 lbs witnessed more pressure and across the board were $6 to $8 lower. The slaughter cow figures remain solid, but the bulls were $10 lower due to lower yielding being offered.

The board continues to take negative hits as the national politics are heating up with some talk of freezing food prices thus choking a free market. This has dampened some of the feeders optimism.

COMMENTS

Packer cows and bulls are several dollars higher than last week with stocker cows still in very good demand. The calf market still continues to suffer blows as the futures market drives down the values. Numbers of cattle still remain low with favorable grass conditions still in many regions, only to be trumped by national uncertainty with our global markets. Political and economic stability would certainly put some positivity back under everyone's feet. We will pray for good leadership and rain as the summer draws down and we move into the fall runs. Thank you everyone and see y'all next Wednesday!
