Weekly Summary

Compared to last week's market, feeder steers and heifers weight class averages ended fully $8 to $10 higher. The slaughter cows and slaughter bull figures continued to remain firm with last week's ending figures.

Yesterday's negative board closing was offset by today's futures regaining much of what was lost yesterday. Excellent grazing conditions up North along with a bumper corn crop continue to fuel buyer demand against a smaller pool of available feeder calves.

COMMENTS

Very good sale today. A wide range of quality on the yearling alley would have price spreads wider than normal. Fleshy bull calves or plainer thin cattle would be miles behind better program calves. A strong futures market is keeping some footing on all the cattle none the less. Packer cows & bulls may have lost a dollar or two. Replacement cattle bred to calve this fall or early spring have all the friends! We appreciate everyone on both ends of the market and we will see y'all next week.
